

Not So Smart
Shelter for Animals
Same as for Men

Our public debt, comments Editor Harris of West Point (Miss.) Times Leader, is double that of all Europe. "Think of it!" exclaims Editor Harris. "The 150 million people in the United States have a government debt twice as large as that of all the governments of the 500 million people of Europe."

Which suggests that we Americans aren't very smart in going around the world offering ourselves as a magic people who know all about everything.

The cold facts are that 200 years after we started off with the richest continent on earth we have it in back for three times the per-capita debt of supposedly bankrupt Europe.

Not so smart.

It suggests that the adage about private fortunes, "Three generations from shirt-sleeves to shirt-sleeves," applies to nations as well as to individuals.

There are elements of tragedy in that story of the animals which escaped from Campa Brothers circus and are now living furiously in the foothills of our Arkansas Ozarks.

Some deer hunter shot one of the black bears and is in trouble with the law, there being no open season on black bears in Arkansas, and the game authorities holding court to see if a bear is a bear regardless of its origin.

Except for the polar bear, regardless of his origin the polar bear is a killer, and a man shooting him would be justified as a matter of self-defense.

And yet circus people say, with some truth, that if they could have carried the original cages out to where the fugitive animals were they would have piled back into them voluntarily. You recall the case of the black leopard that escaped from the Oklahoma City zoo and was shot at the particular moment he was lurking nearby figuring on getting back to the only safe place he knew, his cage.

Some time ago a farm boy was a witness to something every farmer is familiar with. Lightning had struck a barn and the animals were in a panic. The boy ran to the horses out to safety—and then the panicky animals broke away and ran back into their flaming stalls, and burned to death.

Even the wild beasts, when raised in captivity, take on some of the habits of domestic animals, which makes them strangely parallel that of civilized men. Those who are sheltered all their lives lose energy and self-reliance—those who are thrown on their own.

Rain fell along the east coast and some cool air was expected to move into the area today. Temperatures hit record highs for the date yesterday in many eastern cities, including New York 67; Baltimore's 71; Boston's 69 and New-Ark's 70.

It was hotter in the south with a high of 85 at Miami, 82 at New Orleans and 78 at Fort Worth. The day's top mark was 90 at Laredo, Tex. The low was 23 at Minot, N.D.

Little Rock, Nov. 15 (AP)—Two more shipments of football betting cards have been seized by Pulaski Prosecutor Tom Downie.

The cards, two shipments of 500 each, arrived by air here yesterday. They were consigned to the Railway Express agency by National Publications of Chicago. The shipments were addressed to Loyd L. Lemon and the Union Pool Hall, both in Hot Springs.

It was the second time Downie has confiscated the cards, which he considers gaming devices. Downie got 6,000 cards addressed to Little Rock and Hot Springs out of his first raid.

Later, about 1,000 cards were taken from three men in front of a North Little Rock printing establishment. The men were charged with possessing gaming devices.

Government Rolls Back Used Auto Prices

Washington, Nov. 15 (AP)—The government today rolled back ceiling prices on used automobiles six per cent below levels of last January.

The office of price stabilization (O.P.S.) said its new dollar-and-cents ceilings set prices at about current market levels. An exception to the immediate rollback will be 1951 models which may be sold at the going market price.

However, O.P.S. said 1951 cars, along with all others, will be subject to a two per cent deduction for depreciation on Jan. 1. Every three months thereafter, on the first day of each calendar quarter, another two per cent must be cut from the price of all the named 35 makes of cars manufactured between 1940 and 1951.

The ceiling price of pre-1940 cars will be that of the oldest model listed for the same make.

The new dollars and cents order replaces previous orders setting ceilings on the basis of prices in several used car guide books. Provisions of the regulation are effective Nov. 20. However, the dollars and cents prices do not go into effect until 30 days after that date.

The order divides the country into three geographical areas for pricing. The areas generally reflect differences in shipping costs of the cars originally. Those in region A will have the lowest prices and those in region C the highest under the lengthy tables.

O.P.S. gave this example of how the two per cent depreciation will apply:

A 1950 Chevrolet Styleline special sedan in region A is listed at $1,555. On Jan. 1, 1952, the ceiling price will be two per cent less than that price, or $1,522.90. On April 1, 1952, the ceiling price will be two per cent less than $1,522.90, or $1,493.42, and so on for each calendar quarter.

The ceiling prices include all standard equipment, as well as radio, heater and other items on the car at the time the seller bought the car. Automatic transmissions or drives, or air-conditioning units are extra and prices also are listed which may be added to the car ceiling.

O.P.S. said the ceilings for such extra equipment must be depreciated at the same rate as that of the car itself.

The agency said allowances for a used car being traded in on another new or used automobile may exceed the ceiling price. However, the allowance must not exceed the ceiling for the car on which it is being traded.

O.P.S. specified that used cars on dealers' lots must bear tags stating the make, model, line or series and the ceiling price, including any extra, special or optional equipment. The tag also must show the price at which the car is being offered for sale. Sellers also must issue invoices within seven days after a sale giving this detailed information.

The order bars sellers from any special requirements as a condition for sale, such as: Demand time payments, loans through any particular agency, or purchasing extra equipment, parts or service to get the car.

Trash Burners Giving Firemen Headaches

Headaches are plentiful to firemen this winter days with thoughtless housewives burning trash when ever the notion hits them.

As a result three trash fires got out of control this morning in different sections of the city but all were put out before damage resulted. One false alarm was turned in.

Apartment houses along local residents not to burn trash when there is a high wind and never leave a fire before the flame is out.

Nobel Prize Winner Is a Swede

Stockholm, Nov. 15 (AP)—The Swedish academy today awarded the 1951 Nobel prize for literature to one of its own members, Par Lagerkvist, author of the novels "The Dwarf" and "Barabbas".

Lagerkvist, who is 60 years old and a playwright, poet, essayist and writer of short stories as well as a novelist, will receive a check for $67,612 ($32,357) from King Gustav Adolf at the Nobel prize presentation ceremony in Stockholm Dec. 10.

The selection of Lagerkvist for this year's literature prize was not unexpected here. He was mentioned among contenders in 1949 and again in 1950, running second to American Novelist William Faulkner in the academy's balloting in the latter year.

He is the fourth Swede to win the prize. Previous Swedish winners were Selma Lagerlof, Verner von Heidenstam and Erik Axel Karlfeldt.

In choosing Lagerkvist, the academy, of which he has been a member since 1940, clearly followed the wishes of the donor of the prize, Alfred Nobel. Nobel stipulated that the writing of prize winners should have "an idealistic tendency."

Although Lagerkvist has written more than 30 books since he published his first work in 1912, he was little known outside Scandinavia until the appearance of his novel of the renaissance, "The Dwarf," in 1944. It appeared in translation in the U. S. in 1945.

In 1950, he reached the ranks of international best sellers with "Barabbas," a novel about the thief saved from crucifixion when the Jews chose to have him released instead of Jesus. This novel was translated into 11 languages within a year of its publication in Sweden and was published in America last month.

Early in his career Lagerkvist earned a sensation in Swedish literary circles by trying to apply the theories of cubist painting to writing.

A few years later, Lagerkvist adopted "expressionism," in which detailed naturalism is rejected. He contended that only eruptive writing could convey strong feeling.

Although these experiments had little popular appeal, Lagerkvist followed his own convictions and succeeded a few years later in evolving a stark, simple style that has won him a wide reputation in Europe.

Cooling Off Period on Divorces Now

Pine Bluff, Nov. 15 (AP)—A 30-day cooling-off period between the time a couple files for a divorce and the hearing is held in court goes into effect here today.

Chancellor Carlton Harris, Pine Bluff, said the idea may stop some couples from getting divorces. He said it is aimed primarily at cases where the complaint is filed in anger after a sudden quarrel.

The new rule will not apply in cases where grounds for divorce have been established—where the couple has lived apart for three consecutive years or where incurable insanity is charged, provided the person accused has been in an institution for three consecutive years.

"The hasty divorce business has worried me for a long time," said Judge Harris. "Too many persons think nothing at all about the seriousness of the step when they appear in court."

McCrory Youth Gets His Wish

McCrory, Nov. 15 (AP)—Thirteen-year-old Kenneth Hutchinson attended the funeral of a junior high school football teammate in the school gymnasium here last Saturday.

He was impressed with the service and told his father, Claude Hutchinson:

"Daddy, I want my funeral to be in the school gymnasium."

His wish was granted today. The boy was injured fatally in an automobile collision Sunday night.

Bodies of 36 Gls Found in Plane Wreckage

Chambon-sur-Lac, France, Nov. 15 (AP)—Rescue crews today found the shattered snow-crusted wreckage of a missing U. S. air force transport plane 5,000 feet up a mountain slope in southern France. All aboard were dead.

American and French rescuers, begin bringing the battered burned bodies of the 36 passengers and crewmen—all U. S. military personnel—down the side of the mountain where the twin-engine flying box car crashed Tuesday.

Rescue teams who fought their way up the snow and ice encrusted slope 250 miles south of Paris said most of the fire-scattered bodies were battered to bits by the crash.

The plane itself appeared to be in one piece, with only small bits of wreckage scattered over an area of some 80 square yards. Its two engines had buried themselves into the snow-crusted soil and the fuselage apparently had burst open. Half the twin tail assembly was burned, but the other part was intact.

A team of French soldiers first sighted the wreckage just after dawn. They had trekked foot and on skis all night, through a three-foot snow layer, to reach the crash scene. Later they were joined by 10 U. S. air force rescue workers.

The plane disappeared Tuesday on a routine flight from Frankfurt to Bordeaux with 29 airman, a U. S. soldier and six crewmen.

It crashed into a peak in the Mont Dore group some 20 miles south of Clermont Ferrand.

Today the plane lay glistening in the sunlight, a few feet below the opening of a defile toward which the pilot apparently had headed. Chambon residents said the weather on Tuesday at the time of the crash was foggy, with visibility very limited.

Since the plane's disappearance parties have scoured snow-covered mountains and valleys over a broad expanse of France and an air armada has flown unceasingly to try to locate the wreckage.

Aerial search for the missing craft had been hampered for the past two days by icing of the planes and dense fog which blanketed southwestern France. The weather cleared today, however.

First trace of the missing plane, discovered yesterday, was a partly burned U. S. air force training certificate found in the Mont Dore area. It was identified as having belonged to one of the passengers.

The airman aboard were en route to Bordeaux where they were to open a motor pool as part of the Atlantic across France to Germany. The soldier was returning from leave in Germany.

The names of the victims have been withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Strike Takes Radio Stations Off the Air

St. Louis, Nov. 15 (AP)—Seven of the ten St. Louis area radio stations were off the air today as a result of an unexpected work stoppage by union engineers who operate the station transmitters.

The AFL International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers' Local 1277 voted the work stoppage early today after a ten-hour negotiating session.

The union's contract with the stations expired at midnight last night.

Off the air were Stations KXOK, WIL, KWK, WJW and KSTL in St. Louis; KXL in suburban Clayton; and KTMV in East St. Louis, Ill.

Negotiations were broken off after a separate settlement was reached between the union and Radio Station KSD and television Station KSD-TV about 7 a. m. (EST). KSD began broadcasting two and one-half hours behind schedule and KSD-TV, the city's only TV station, began telecasts on schedule at 7-15 a. m.

The only other stations operating in the area were KMOX in the city and KFUD, a non-commercial station operated by the Lutheran church-Missouri synod, in Clayton.

After the settlement with KSD and KSD-TV, management officials left the hotel where the negotiations were held and announced they would be available at 3 p. m. today if a union representatives wanted to see them.

"The work stoppage came as a distinct surprise," company officials said in a statement. "The union gave no reason why the negotiations were abruptly suspended."

Dennis Volas, president of the union, said the management group acted "directly to cut wages and reduce sick leave allowances and other long-earned benefits."

A management spokesman said the engineers had been offered a pay increase of $5.92 a week. He added this was the maximum possible under the wage stabilization law. This was the amount of the pay increase granted engineers employed by KSD and KSD-TV and $17.92 weekly.

"The union local, which has about 135 members, set up picket lines in America? No one knows for sure."

"We estimate about 15,000,000," he said, "but we are taking a census now to find out more exactly."

"I think it will show, however, that it is Main Street, not Wall Street, that owns American industry."

Funkston believes there should be at least 30,000,000 stockholders in America and that such a number would have a tremendous effect in bolstering faith in capitalism.

"We might have to have a country where nearly everyone was prosperous," he said, "That's a big order—but I think it's possible."

One of the big difficulties he has found is convincing small investors that stockbrokers are not interested only in people who come in waving a handful of $1,000 bills.

"We're trying to break that feeling down," he said, "and get them to realize that brokers are interested in small business as well as big business."

He hadn't found too much difficulty in adjusting himself to the change from the academic cloister to the hurly-burly of the stock exchange.

"You still deal with people," he remarked, and then added, smiling, "One of my biggest problems is to explain to people that I really don't know myself what is going to happen next on the stock market. Nobody knows."

On that point he has to worry as much as anybody else. He's an investor, too.

Seeks Direct Home Loans to Servicemen

Little Rock, Nov. 15 (AP)—A Little Rock veterans organization wants direct government home loans for ex-service men here.

Post 51 of the American Veterans of World War Two (Amvets) charged last night that private firms in Little Rock are charging excessive fees on loans to veterans.

O. B. Clark, chairman of an Amvets committee, said he had asked Jerome Thompson, assistant manager of the veterans' administration regional office, for a meeting to discuss the possibility of direct government loans. Thompson said the conference would be granted. No date has been set.

The government allows direct loans from VA funds at four per cent interest only in areas where private loans are not "reasonably available." Direct loans are provided in all sections of Arkansas except Little Rock, North Little Rock, West Memphis, Fort Smith, Van Buren, Fayetteville and Texarkana.

Clark said Little Rock veterans are being forced by private business to pay four per cent interest; a one per cent initiating fee and hidden charges which amount to a three or four per cent brokerage or handling fee. He said the hidden charges are made simply by increasing the price of house sold to veterans. On a $10,000 home, excessive charges amount to as much as $500, said Clark.

On private home loans to veterans, the government limits the initiating fee, or handling charge to one per cent.

Doesn't Apologize for Being a Capitalist But Insists Main Streets Own Industry

By HAL BOYLE

New York, (AP)—I went down to Wall Street the other day to see how a young Phi Beta Kappa there is doing in his campaign to make America a land of little capitalists.

"The idea of apologizing for capitalism has made quite a bit," said George Keith Funkston.

George, who is 41 and tall enough to play basketball for Kentucky University, is the new chief shepherd of the bulls and bears of the financial district. He recently gave up the presidency of Little Trinity college to become president of the big New York Stock exchange.

This $100,000-a-year post automatically makes Funkston a middle-class capitalist himself at least. But he has a program to manufacture more American capitalists, by the millions, and he believes that is the way to turn communism and socialism.

His idea is to broaden the base of industrial ownership by getting small investors to buy shares of common stock.

"People are for what they have a vested interest in," he said. "They follow their pocketbooks."

If a man buys a share of stock, whether that stock goes up or down, he will still remain a capitalist.

Funkston thinks nobody should buy stock unless he can afford to take a risk, but that anyone with an income who has provided against emergencies can afford to take the risk of stock investment.

1,550 Deer Killed in State, 30-35 in Hempstead

The Game Commission estimated today that at least 1,550 deer have been killed in Arkansas during the first three days of the season. From 30 to 35 have been killed in Hempstead local game wardens announced.

Warden Lester Wade reported the following had made kills: C. H. Hays, Bepenter, near Memphis; Patterson also bagged an 8-point near Mona and Herbert Harris at Prescott killed a 7-point buck over in Nevada county.

Oscar Chandler and Jim Horn, both of Nashville, killed a couple of 6-pointers just inside Hempstead and Bill Taylor of Nashville bagged a 4-point buck in Hempstead.

Military Shocked by Slaughter of U. S. Prisoners

Tokyo, Nov. 15 (AP)—The reported Communist slaughter of some 5,500 American prisoners of war shocked general headquarters from top to bottom today.

Col. James M. Hanley, chief of the war crimes section of the Eighth Army, said he divulged the figures because he thought American soldiers at the front ought to know what they are up against.

In an exclusive interview in Pusan, Korea, Hanley said the story about the "wanton murder" of American prisoners "should have been put out a long time ago."

Apparently no one knew he was going to make the statement—least of all Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, who was duck hunting.

General headquarters officers, after conferring with Hanley by telephone, are preparing an announcement tonight for release tomorrow to clarify "the basis for some of Hanley's figures."

Even Gen. James A. Van Fleet, commander of the Eighth Army in Korea, said he had no advance knowledge. He declined to comment.

Hanley is chief of the war crimes section of the Eighth Army. Hanley released the Red atrocity total yesterday at a press conference in Pusan, Korea.

What Hanley did was total all the reports and estimates of Communist atrocities since the beginning of the war.

These figures came from captured Red soldiers, escaped United Nations prisoners, from questioning civilians, and from Allied agents operating behind Communist lines.

In some cases the bodies actually were counted. Many of the massacres had been reported long before.

"All I wanted," Hanley said today in Pusan, "was to let the GIs know what the Chinese are doing and let them realize the Communist propaganda."

He said that last September he submitted a memorandum to the office of general headquarters in Tokyo asking authority to tell the story. At the time he was leaving Korea for a business trip in Washington. He said on his return early this month he was notified the story could be released.

Hanley said he assumed the approval came through normal channels.

He emphasized that his announcement had nothing to do with the cease-fire talks at Panmunjom nor with war crimes.

"To start talking about war crimes at this time would be dynamite," Hanley said. "We will stay away from it."

The Eighth Army's war crimes section, which Hanley heads, is the official investigating body for atrocities.

Some quarters said this was not the opportune time to put out such a story. Hanley said he found this not to be the case.

One high officer greeted the announcement with "hopeful skepticism."

"I am just hoping that our estimates are too high," he said. "I am keeping in mind that the enemy knows how dear to America every captured American soldier is and that every captured American is extremely valuable bargaining material in armistice negotiations."

Another officer countered:

"The high levels of the Communist atrocities may be aware of the bargaining value American captives, but that knowledge might not extend down to the front line Communist troops or to the patrol leader who doesn't want to bother to bring in live prisoners."

Gurdon Woman Hurt in Wreck Near Prescott

An auto occupied by Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Pitts of Gurdon crashed into the back of another driven by Jim Fulk of Brierley early last night on Highway 67, 5 miles north of Prescott.

Mrs. Pitts, riding with her husband, suffered lacerations and was taken to a Prescott hospital for treatment. Her condition was not believed to be critical.

Investigating State Patrolman Guy Downing said Fulk's auto was forced off the road and overturned. Property damage was very heavy. Mr. Downing said.

Reds Abandon Immediate Cease Fire Demand

Panmun, Korea, Nov. 15 (AP)—The Communists today abandoned their insistence on an immediate cease-fire in Korea.

The reversal came after Maj. Gen. Henry I. Hodges, chief of the United Nations cease-fire subcommittee, accused the Reds of wanting to "substitute a legal clause in place of good faith."

Hodges called on the Communists to work out a joint proposal for settlement of the touchy buffer zone dispute.

"With this eliminated," he said, "our (cease-fire) proposals would be to all intents and purposes identical. I propose that we formulate a proposal on this basis."

The Red negotiators replied they never had sought an end to talk fighting before a full armistice is signed.

Wednesday, however, the Reds declared that a de facto cease-fire would be "an unavoidable result of the agenda" and "an indispensable part and inevitable consequence of the process of armistice negotiations."

The Communists continued to insist on immediate establishment of a cease-fire line paralleling the battle front. However, under terms of their Saturday proposal, this line could be changed through subsequent military action.

Levy described the new Communist position as "inconsistent" with one taken Wednesday by North Korean Maj. Gen. Lee Song Cho and Chinese Maj. Gen. Hsien Fang.

Two-man subcommittees, representing both sides will meet again in Panmunjom at 11 a. m. Friday (8 a. m. EST Thursday) for another debate on the buffer zone issue.

A U. N. command spokesman said there was no mention of the Allies' prisoner of war atrocity charges at Thursday's negotiating session.

The spokesman, Lt. Col. R. J. Baurnschmidt, said the only reference to prisoners of war came during a discussion on items on the armistice agenda. This covers the exchange of war prisoners.

Throughout the negotiations, the U. N. command has expressed concern over the fate of Allied troops captured by Communists.

U. N. negotiators have insisted that an exchange of prisoners be arranged before a cease-fire becomes effective.

Baurnschmidt declined to speculate as to whether disclosure of the long-secret atrocities would have any effect on the negotiations.

Throughout Thursday's three-hour and 20-minute session, the Reds continued to insist that a cease-fire line be fixed before armistice talks move on to other matters. U. N. command negotiators reiterated that any line drawn now would result in a de facto cease-fire and permit the Reds to stall on other agenda problems.

Maj. Gen. Henry I. Hodges, head of the U. N. command subcommittee, told the Reds they want cease-fire—the end result of armistice negotiations—when an agreement had been reached on only two-fifths of the agenda. He was not and never had been understanding of the United Nations or of the Communists themselves.

Communist news correspondents at Panmunjom denied that they demanded an immediate cease-fire.

"They insisted the Communists want only to fix a cease-fire now, as provided by the armistice agenda. However, they said that once such a line was set, there would be tacit agreement not to cross it."

Young Auto Thieves Returned to Texas

Two youths held here for theft of an automobile in Texas were turned over to officers from Carthage, Texas, last night. City Police reported today. Weather Blows Hot and Cold

By The Associated Press

The weather blew warm and cold across the nation today.

Strong winds, snow and cool weather hit areas from the Appalachians to the Rockies.

Most of the south was having a spell of mild weather but some cooler air appeared headed for the southern states after summery temperatures yesterday.

The Great Lakes region was hit by strong winds and snow flurries. Snow was reported in the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin, northern Michigan and the northern Rockies. Flurries were forecast for most of the north central region. Temperatures dropped below freezing early today in some areas.

Rain fell along the east coast and some cool air was expected to move into the area today. Temperatures hit record highs for the date yesterday in many eastern cities, including New York 67; Baltimore's 71; Boston's 69 and New-Ark's 70.

It was hotter in the south with a high of 85 at Miami, 82 at New Orleans and 78 at Fort Worth. The day's top mark was 90 at Laredo, Tex. The low was 23 at Minot, N.D.

Taft Given Edge Over Ike in House Poll

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

Washington, Nov. 15 (AP)—Senator Robert A. Taft today gave Dwight D. Eisenhower, 71 to 51, the first choice in the House poll for the "GO" presidential nomination in a poll conducted by Rep. Cole (R-NY).

Results of the private survey, started in September and conducted this week, were disclosed by Cole today in the wake of California Gov. Earl Warren's announcement that he is a candidate for the Republican nomination.

Warren's move yesterday put him far from the race with Taft's. So far the Ohio Senator and Warren are the only avowed candidates in either major party.

Eisenhower for president. Republican leaders are hard at work in his behalf, however, despite the general refusal to say publicly whether he will run.

Senator Taft of Ohio, one of the leaders of the move, announced in a New Orleans speech late last night that he would support Eisenhower for the "GO" nomination in a caucus to put Eisenhower in the White House. Taft said he and Lodge will go to Paris in December to confer with the general. Taft and others have voiced confidence Eisenhower will be available when he feels he can leave his job as commander of North Atlantic forces in Europe.

Cole's poll, which brought replies from 141 of the 161 House Republicans to whom he sent questionnaires, gave Warren five votes as first choice for the party nomination. The balloting was completed in advance of Warren's announcement of his candidacy.

Taft and Eisenhower between them polled 125 first choice ballots, with Taft getting a 17 vote edge. In third place as No. 1 choice was Senator Everett Dirksen of Illinois with 13 votes. Gen. Douglas MacArthur was fourth with 12 votes, followed by Warren with 5.

The poll showed Warren second choice with 23 votes to Taft's 30. Warren was the Republican vice presidential nominee in 1948.

Cole's conclusion was that his survey showed "serious consideration" by his Republican colleagues for only Taft and Eisenhower. Senator Nixon (R-Calif.), however, termed Warren "the strong, not dark-horse candidate" in the field. Nixon said he had found

CHAPTER NINETEEN

THOUGHTFULLY, Mollie examined her "help" to Peter for places where it could hurt her. She meant to seize any chance that appeared to show a pin in Butler and Peter both. The could play and that was what Mollie's plan was. She was not a fool. Being in that position to forward her personal interests.

Well, she was interested, and personally, in what Peter did, and what happened to him. She wished she had asked him to report to her—but maybe he would. He probably would.

Peter lost no time in "telling the privacy" of Mr. Yearby. "Get the history and come with me," he told the medical resident. "What history?" asked that young doctor.

Peter stared at him. Dr. Butler's eyes dropped. "Oh, oh," said Peter. Then, come on.

After all the fuss, both young doctors were surprised to find that the patient was only a sick old man, not someone at all. For was he outraged at their "invasion"? wondered if I wasn't paying for a little more attention than I was getting," he said mildly.

"You'll get all that's coming to you," said Peter. "I'm the surgical resident on duty, come on. Shepherd. This is the medical resident, Dr. Butler, and this is the technician. We have certain routine tests to make, Mr. Yearby. I know they'll duplicate these Dr. Butler has done—"

"It's my wife's doctor. She thinks he's pretty fine."

"You like him?" The faded old eyes peered sharply at Peter. "Do you mind turning over, sir?" said Peter with his nice smile.

He made his tests quickly, efficiently, and was rewarded by Mr. Yearby's statement, "You know, I don't object to a doctor for being young if he knows his job."

"I am to know it, or learn it," said Peter pleasantly. "We should have told him not to say to Butler that we'd been in," said the medical resident.

"Why? I'm not afraid of every body. Especially doctors."

"The way I look at it," said Peter, busy with his report, "I'd rather get Butler down on me than Mollie or the manager—or both."

"Yeah, I see what you mean. What about that cystotomy scheduled? You gonna let Butler do it?" "Get out of here, will you?" interrupted Peter.

strong grass roots backing for Warren in several states.

Taft's reaction to Warren's announcement was: "The more the merrier."

Taft told a news conference late yesterday he had "assumed right along" that Warren would be a candidate. The Ohioan said he

When these tests come up... "It's about a week," said Burke. "I just love fireworks!"

But when the test reports came up, he too got a little pale. "Now, what you gonna do, Shepherd?"

The test and celebrated statistics, a finding that considerably changed the picture for any surgical resident. "I never suppose he knew?" Peter asked.

"I don't think even Yearby knew."

"The residents didn't tell it in the history you told."

Peter got out his notes. "No, he didn't. He read down the list of the year. Way back to election of Newt Hoover. But, really, Shepherd, why do you think that's only Butler wanted us to stay out?"

The young men stared at each other. Peter's head shook. "No, I don't think that's up with the manager," he said finally. "Garry on, will you?"

"Did you want to go?" asked Peter. "I don't think so," said Peter. "I don't think so," said Peter. "I don't think so," said Peter.

"I don't think so," said Peter. "I don't think so," said Peter. "I don't think so," said Peter. "I don't think so," said Peter.

"I don't think so," said Peter. "I don't think so," said Peter. "I don't think so," said Peter. "I don't think so," said Peter.

die," Dr. Stetzel relayed to Peter. He turned to his secretary. "Please get Dr. Butler on the phone."

While he waited, he studied Peter's papers, his fingers tapping the edge of his desk. "Sit down, doctor," he said absent-mindedly. "Smoke if you like."

"I'm on duty, sir."

When the phone buzzed both men jumped a little. "Butcher?" This was Stetzel, at Boone. "I'm fine, thank you. . . . There's a little matter come up, doctor, about a cystotomy you have."

"I don't think it matters who the patient is, doctor. . . . Yes, yes. . . . My question has to do with an order you seem to have given that our surgery resident."

"I know, but a rule's a rule. . . . Yes, yes. . . . Yes, Shepherd. The manager turned a questioning glance at Peter, who had doctored. He knew what was coming. The manager listened to a flood of crackling sounds. "If that's true, doctor, it's a grave charge. You should have brought it to our attention earlier. . . . I see. . . . Now, this cystotomy—Our lab report shows—certainly, we examined the patient! We don't open our operating rooms to any patient whose record is . . . He put his hand over the phone."

"You can go back on your ward, Shepherd," he said mildly. "Garry on as usual. But wait for confirmation of the orders on Dr. Butler's patient."

At five, Peter was to go off duty for 12 hours. At five minutes before that hour the order came through to tell Mr. Yearby that his operation would be delayed somewhat. Peter carried out this duty and joined Burke at the elevator door. "I only hope you get out of this institution," said Burke. "Before Butler arrives, he'll come prepared to shoot on sight."

"Yes," said Shepherd, "but I still don't see how I could have acted differently. Though I do feel as if I had a bear by the tail."

To the relief of both doctors, the elevator came up empty. "The reason," said Burke, pushing the button for the basement, "we new-inches doctors don't go running to the manager with every little complaint is that Stetzel has a nasty way of paying attention to all such stuff. You're due to hear a lot more from his office, Shepherd. I guess you know that?"

"Yep, I know it."

"Like as not, you'll have to make a report in person at the Staff meeting."

depended the campaign could be conducted on a friendly basis, and added:

"I have only the friendliest feelings toward Governor Warren."

Taft met with newsmen here to discuss his book, "A foreign policy plan" for Americans, published today. It is sharply critical of the administration's foreign program.

At one point, however, Taft writes "we have no choice now except to complete as rapidly as possible the arming of Western Europe if it desires to be armed."

He remarked to reporters that the job being directed by Eisenhower is about half finished.

Record Turkey Crop But Prices Up

By The Associated Press

Despite a record turkey crop this year, prices of the traditional Thanksgiving day feast birds will average slightly higher than last year.

Final prices for turkeys in the big buying days next week will not be set until about Monday. And spokesmen for major chains and independents said they generally can expect to pay about four to five cents a pound more than a year ago.

A crop estimated at around 32,000,000 birds, or about one-sixth larger than last year's, will assure plenty of turkeys. The popular eight to 12 pound sizes may be in somewhat tight supply in a few scattered places.

Why are prices up? For one thing, poultry men say, the industry has taken a hefty amount of that crop.

The cranberry crop this year is somewhat below last year's record but still a big one—216,600 barrels.

Most of the other foods of the holiday season are plentiful, too.

Meat prices followed an irregular trend this week. New ceiling adjustments by the office of price stabilization, effective on Tuesday, resulted in some sharp increases

Deaf Mute Is Convicted

Little Rock, Nov. 15 (AP)—A deaf mute has been convicted of assault with intent to kill two teen-agers. His punishment was fixed at five years in the Arkansas penitentiary by a Pulaski county Circuit court jury here yesterday.

Charles Bunney Youngblood was found guilty of shooting Virginia Avery, 17, and stabbing her sister, Elizabeth, 15, near their home on the night of Aug. 29. Youngblood, 24, of Booneville, Ark., had followed the girls from downtown Little Rock to a bus.

When questioned following his conviction, Youngblood said he had been attacked by the girls. "I never get girls' dates," he said, only spurring him because of his affliction.

Defense Attorney Fred Neith had asked that the charge be reduced to aggravated assault. But Prosecutor Tom Doxey contended that the purchase of a pistol and knife by Youngblood on the day of the crime showed intent to kill.

Youngblood testified—with the aid of an interpreter—that he bought the weapons for protection against robbers. He explained that he sometimes carried large sums of money, obtained by selling dead game "sympathy" cards.

But he also admitted on the stand that he had told officers that he purchased the weapons to kill a girl in Pine Bluff who had rejected his advances.

The state's mother, Mrs. Eulalia Youngblood of Booneville, Tenn., attended the one-day trial. Youngblood is the youngest of seven children.

Arkadelphia to Get Housing

Arkadelphia, Nov. 15 (AP)—The Arkansas housing authority will accept bids Dec. 15 for construction of 77 units to replace substandard housing.

Albin Stone, authority chairman, announced yesterday that bids will be accepted on 51 white units and 26 Negro units. He estimated cost of the projects at $725,000.

Paratroopers Ready to Drop on Any Front

A Military Base in Japan, Nov. 14 (AP) — Brig. Gen. Thomas J. H. Tappell's 197th regimental combat team is ready to drop in on any part of the Korean battlefield.

The 2,000 paratroopers, with 100,000 pounds of equipment, made a successful test jump on Kijima yesterday. They were flown to the Tegal area by around 110 planes of the 31st Air Division (Combat Cargo) and were brought back to Japan before dawn today.

Dubbed "Operation Showoff," the maneuver showed off America's ability to move men and equipment rapidly for surprise blows against an enemy.

It also gave the rugged soldiers of the 197th, almost all new recruits since the combat days of October, 1950, and last May, a test of their capabilities.

The men have been practicing for months. The jump served to let off steam, one officer said.

Only light equipment was taken in the practice operation, but full combat gear is ready for instant use.

The combat cargo command, headed by 33-year-old Brig. Gen. John P. Henley, of Kenilworth, Ill., had no difficulty in getting planes off the ground one minute apart on the flight to Korea.

Combat Cargo has dropped 18,000 tons of supplies to frontline troops in Korea. It has spilled 8,000 men in actual combat jumps and 16,000 in practice drops.

In tropical and sub-tropical far around the world, climate varies little with the seasons.

Water Key Factor Brannan Asserts

Houston, Texas, Nov. 14 (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Brannan declared today that water—through its excesses and shortages—is becoming more and more a limiting factor to American progress.

"There is serious need," he said, "for improved measures that will permit us to make more effective use of the rain that falls on the land and water that flows from it—not only for agriculture but for the entire economy."

In a talk prepared for an annual meeting of the association of land grant colleges and universities, Brannan said floods and droughts this year should make the nation realize the need for more effective water control and conservation measures.

This year people in many sections of the country have been caught by pain—by pain of floods in the Missouri basin and the upper Middle West by pain of drought in the Northwest, Southwest and East," he said.

Looking ahead to 1975, Brannan said there is a serious question as to whether this country will be able to produce food for its increased population unless better use is made of water to promote larger crop yields.

Doctor's Widow Dies in Wreck

Pine Bluff, Nov. 13 (AP) — The 68-year-old widow of Dr. John S. Wilson, former Monticello, Ark., physician, was killed in a highway mishap near here yesterday.

Her death raised the violent fatality toll in Arkansas this week to eight.

Mrs. Bessie Wilson was injured when the car in which she was riding went out of control and rolled down a 10-foot embankment.

Arkansas State Trooper Walter Matthews said a two-wheel trailer being pulled by the automobile went off the pavement forcing the car out of control.

Mrs. Wilson's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. David Ross, were injured in the accident.

CIO Launches Drive for New Wage Increase

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 13 (AP) — The CIO launched a drive today to boost wages in the steel industry.

Philip Murray, president of the CIO and head of the 1,000,000-member steelworkers union, assembled his steel wage-policy committee to map new contract demands.

The situation held the possibility of an eventual steel industry strike which could throttle output of the metal most needed to out-muscle Soviet Russia.

The steel union has only four or five cents hourly coming under the wage stabilization board's present formula.

Murray was reported attempting to figure some way to compensate worker "productivity" or a similar means to get more money for the steel workers. There was some speculation that he may attempt to crack the present wage stabilization formula.

Murray said workers in steel and other industries have been left behind the "eight ball" in the economic scramble and they should get more money.

Murray's demands for improvements of pay and working conditions in the steel industry were unknown. But the Union's wage policy committee was reported to be discussing living cost increases and better worker output.

The questionnaire addressed to the principal steel firms asked for data on worker output, odd-shift production and similar information to indicate that the union was most interested in improving productivity benefits, holiday work premiums and improved vacations.

It was learned that the United States Steel corporation, belvedere of the steel industry, has given at least partial response to the questionnaire. The union claimed the information is needed before its bargaining.

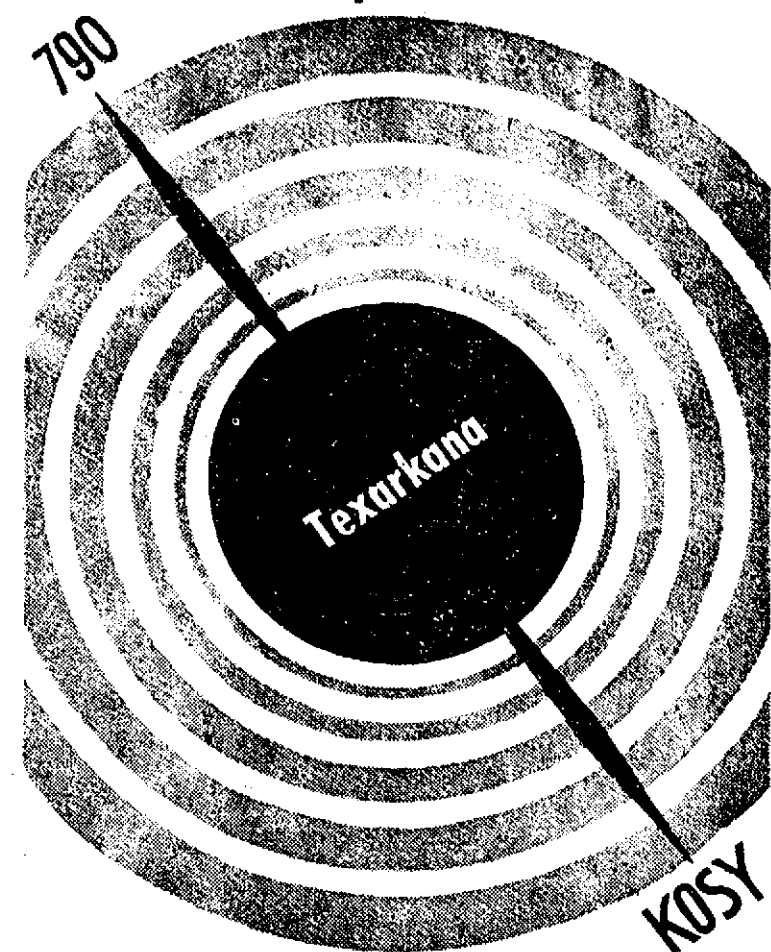

The union's demands for data were so broad, however, that many steel producers were reported to be hesitant to fulfill all the requests for information.

Murray's questions to steel firms indicated, however, that he may be thinking of benefits to supply steel workers with a substantial wage increase and still come within current rules of the wage stabilization board.

Few steel labor disputes have been settled without government help in the past.

Defense Mobilization Chief Charles E. Wilson has announced that the country can't stand a steel strike at this time and said that the government must do everything possible to avoid one.

Yerger Launches Homecoming Activities

Yerger Homecoming events Wednesday afternoon with the closing of the Homecoming Drive and the determining of "Miss Yerger" and her attendants.

Joan Ryan, a member of the Junior Class, Mrs. N. R. Yerger, sponsor, won the coveted title of "Miss Yerger" and will reign at the Homecoming game Friday night when Yerger Tigers meet the Washington High Hornets of Ft. Dorado. Her court will consist of the runner-ups in the contest.

Marion Lucille Hicks, a member of the third grade class of Yerger Elementary school won the title of Princess and will reign along with "Miss Yerger."

"Miss Yerger" will be crowned Thursday afternoon in a colorful Coronation Ceremony at 2 o'clock in the Yerger High School auditorium to which all patrons are invited. Thursday night a Coronation Ball will be given in her honor in Yerger lunchroom. This is the first time such an event has been given and plans are being made to make it a splendid affair.

The Homecoming activities will climax with the football game and half-time activities in which "Miss Yerger" will be presented to the fans, escorted by Captain Sheward Williamson.

Three Local Teams in Action This Weekend

While the Bobcats taper off on the rough stuff in preparation for the trackover here Friday night, the Juniors journey to Nashville tonight to furnish opposition in a Homecoming affair.

Another Homecoming contest is scheduled here Friday night when the Varsity Tigers meet an El Dorado eleven in a conference contest. Venger is still in the running for a state title and will go all out for victory.

Accompanying Coach Jack Sargent's team to Nashville tonight will be the Junior High School band.

Tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in Hammons Stadium the Bobcats will be seeking their second district win against three losses. The Bucks from Smackover are not a winning team this season but are figured to have enough to give the Bobcats a stiff battle. Hope's record is only slightly better.

Although its a battle between two tail-end clubs the rivalry between the teams is keen and opposition is usually rugged.

SMU Given Nod Over Arkansas

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

New York, Nov. 15 (AP)—Half-backs and drawbacks. . . homecomings and short comings. . .
footballs and highballs. . . long roses and broken noses. . . winners and losers. . . all are parts of the football season.

So here are the winners and losers for this weekend's games:
Tennessee over Mississippi; The nab three Saturdays will show if Tennessee is a great or simply a good team. Kentucky and Vanderbilt follow on the Vol schedule.
Chances are Tennessee is about two touchdowns too strong for Mississippi.

Oklahoma over Iowa State.
Coach Bud Wilkinson never has lost a Big Seven game, so why should he start now?

Texas over Texas Christian; The difference between these two clubs can be covered by an ordinary sombbrero. The home field gives the Longhorns' a one-point edge.

East:
Boston University over Wichita,
Brown over Harvard, Colgate over
Syracuse, Cornell over Dartmouth,
Navy over Columbia, Penn over
Army, Penn State over Rutgers,
Temple over Fordham, Villanova over Boston College, West Virginia over Pittsburgh.

Midwest:
Colorado over Nebraska, Kansas
over Oklahoma A & M, Marquette over Detroit, Michigan over Northwestern, Missouri over Kansas
State, Purdue over Minnesota.

Southwest:
Rice over Texas A & M, Southern Methodist over Arkansas, Tulsa over Texas Tech.

Far West:
Brigham Young over New Mexico, Idaho over Arizona, San Francisco over College of Pacific, Utah over Colorado A & M, UCLA over Washington, Washington State over Montana.

Warren May Switch His Strategy

San Francisco, Calif., Nov. 14 (AP). Gov. Earl Warren may switch from his 1948 strategy and enter Republican primaries in a few selected states in his quest for the presidential nomination.

A Warren intimate dropped that hint today. He added, however, the governor has no definite plans and may not decide for some time.

Warren announced his 1948 candidacy yesterday with a call for party unity. He campaigned for the nomination only in California in 1948. He became Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's running mate.

Now he is considering going into other states, particularly in the far west, seeking enough conservative votes to be regarded as a serious candidate.

Sen. Robert A. Taft, R-Ohio, only other avowed candidate, has predicted he will be nominated on the first ballot.

Warren's campaigning for conservative votes, an aide said, may depend on out of state reaction to a Republican policy speech he delivered yesterday night to the state central committee in San Diego.

Another factor obviously does enter into Warren's decision, said Gov. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who, when campaign "know-how" has been him three terms as governor, would not hesitate to oppose Taft in a state like Oregon.

But, the source said, Warren would step aside if it came to an Eisenhower-Taft fight. Eisenhower hasn't said whether he will run.

The governor has been careful not to give any hint of his views toward other prospective candidates.

Warren has remained friendly with Dewey. He sometimes has differed with Taft politically. But otherwise, the Warren aide pointed

DOROTHY DIX

Is He Emotionally Free?

Dear Miss Dix: I am in love with a man 24, who says he loves me and wants to marry me. I don't know too much about him, as he came from another state, but he does seem very nice. However, he is divorced and has a 4-year-old daughter who lives with her mother. I think people should be aware of this always. I have been in love with him for a long time, but I am afraid if he comes back into the picture, I will be hurt.

MYRA ROSE
Answer: You have plenty of time for apprehensions. Don't rush into the marriage with your eyes closed. Find out everything about him from his first wife. His devotion to her family is a hint with the past that could easily turn into an entanglement.

Marriage Holds Uncertainties

At first the second wife of a divorced man is entering a life full of uncertainties. She is in contact with his first wife. She is in contact with his children. She is in contact with his friends. She is in contact with his past. She is in contact with his future. She is in contact with his life.

Naturally, children of the first marriage will increase the possibilities of association between the divorced pair, and when a further complication is added in the form of devoted in-laws, a situation is created charged with emotional dynamite.

Your romance with Frank encounters another obstacle in the fact that you know so little of him. The mere fact that he seems like a nice person is very little recommendation for marriage.

Before taking the trip to the altar, give yourself time to consider the situation carefully. Weigh each problem and see if you don't agree with me that there are too many uncertainties involved to make your future look bright.

Dear Miss Dix: This problem may be none of my business, but if positions were reversed I think I'd want someone to tell me the facts. Our reputations are decent, and people are decent. Recently they went away for a week, and leaving their 1-year-old daughter in town, unaccompanied by her grandmother. However, she and a girl friend stayed at the latter part of both Saturday and Sunday nights over here with their big friend. They kept us in the dark about it. No one knows I told the girl's mother or I don't want to tell.

MRS. H. H.
Answer: Usually I am a staunch member of the "mind your own business" school, but in a case like this, let that wait until you do involving youngsters this age, parents should be told of their daughter's behavior. When you state the facts to your neighbors, however, be sure you tell what you know, not what you think or assume. If the girl was supposed to be at her grandmother's, I can't see why grandma wasn't aware of the youngsters' absence from her house at such undue hours.

Handle this situation as tactfully as possible, for it is lamentably true that parents often resent criticism of their offspring, even when it is justified.

Dear Miss Dix: I am very fond of a boy who is 22, three years older than I. We are not strangers as we have known each other for three years, but I would like to get him more interested in me. He always stops and talks when we meet but never asks for a date. Could I ask him to send me some stickers, as long as you offered to pay for them. The sweater shirt is a bigger item and since mailing it would involve some trouble, the member of the "mind your own business" school, but in a case like this, let that wait until you do

Snively Really May Be Out at North Carolina

Chapel Hill, N. C., Nov. 14 (AP). Carl Snively will be released as head football coach at the University of North Carolina after the Tarheels' first season with Duke Nov. 24, an unofficial but reliable report said today.

An alumnus, active in university affairs, said today that the move "has been in the making for some time and is about ready to crack, possibly before the Duke game."

He added that Maryland Coach Jim Tatum, a North Carolina alumnus and head coach here in 1942, was the No. 1 choice to succeed Snively.

"I believe Tatum's Maryland contract is flexible and he is anxious to come here," he added.

Robert A. Petzer, university athletic director, said there was no become better acquainted with the boy.

Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.

official comment to make the matter.

Snively, while refusing to comment on the report, had this to say about his team which has won two of eight games.

"Our opponents have generally been so strong, so superior that they have swept our team off its feet. This has tended to develop a lack of confidence rather than pride in the squad (about 50 per cent freshmen and sophomores). Injuries have weakened us at many positions throughout the season."

Snively came here in 1915 after a two-year stay a decade before. His 1916 and '17 teams played in the Sugar Bowl game and the 1919 team went to the Cotton Bowl.

The steel industry spends approximately $10,000,000 a year in research work.
